

A New Model for Open Access Publication

ACM Open Author eRights Experience

Welcome to ACM Open!

This document will explain the experience when an author from your institution chooses to publish in an ACM conference or journal. It is extremely important that your authors are listed as the corresponding author and use their institutional email address when submitting their work, so they are provided with the correct ACM Open eRights forms.

An email similar to the one below is sent to the corresponding author of a manuscript in each of these instances:

- Submission to an ACM journal
- Acceptance to an ACM journal
- Acceptance to an ACM conference (will be used for demo purposes below)

Subject: ACM Rights Management: Craig-Boris '19 – TestGov2

Your submission, "TESTPAPER-Creating IoT-ready XR-WebApps with Unity 3D was accepted for publication in Craig-Boris '19: Craig's test event for Boris LaTeX Code 2. You must formally grant permission to ACM to publish this contribution before ACM can proceed with production.

We are pleased to inform you that Carnegie Mellon University has an agreement with ACM under which all affiliated corresponding authors can make their articles Open Access at no additional cost. This agreement enables you to retain your copyright and have a Creative Commons license assigned to your article, providing for worldwide open readership as well as computational and other uses. To confirm your participation in this program, please select Institutionally Paid Open Access / Permissions Release from the list of rights options on the eRights form linked below.

Before submitting the completed eRights form please ensure the following:

- That you have all the permission required for any third-party material you are using in your article
- That you consult with your co-authors on your selections, as all co-authors share in the ethical responsibility associated with publishing
- That you review your author list and title (changes can be made using the EDIT tool at the top of the form)
- That you review your rights as an ACM author

Please click on the following link to access your eRights form.

<https://cms.acm.org/editTool/editPage.cfm?vs=1412075046561D53530905041D50504D034F020F104D54>

If the link above does not contain your paper's information, please contact rightsreview@acm.org.

ACM requires that the information for each author and paper title on the ACM Rights Form precisely match what is on the final version of your paper. The information includes each author's name, each author's affiliation, each author's email address, and the order of the authors on your paper. For Proceedings and Conferences, the edit screen allows the corresponding author to make any updates to the author information and the paper title to match what is on your final paper.

Barbara Ryan
ACM Publications
rightsreview@acm.org

When the corresponding author, (the author who received the email with the link to the eRights form), clicks on the link to the eRights form they are brought to an edit screen. If the paper is part of the ACM Open Program, the ACM Open Edit Screen will have a line at the top saying "This paper is part of the ACM Open Program". (The eRights system recognizes the corresponding author is from a participating institution based on the email domain provided to us by the institution's administrator). If the corresponding author changes their email address, from their institutional domain to a non-institutional domain*, their paper will no longer be part of the ACM Open Program.

The corresponding author should confirm all information on the edit screen to make sure the title and all the author information is correct. Once the corresponding author has reviewed the information and determines it is correct, they should click on the check box and then click on Proceed to eRights Form button:

Welcome to ACM's eRights process! ACM requires that the information displayed on its eRights forms precisely match what is displayed on the final version of this paper. If any of the data below does not meet this requirement, it is your responsibility as the corresponding author to contact your administrator and notify them of any discrepancies.

As a published ACM author, you and your co-authors are subject to all ACM Publications Policies, including ACM's new Publications Policy on Research Involving Human Participants and Subjects.

I have verified that all details pertaining to this paper and its authors are correct and these data will be used in the published PDF, HTML, and citation page output for the ACM Digital Library.

Save Paper and Author DetailsProceed to eRights Form

Clicking on the Proceed to eRights Form button will bring the corresponding author to the ACM eRights Form (samples below). The ACM Open eRights Form defaults to the Institutionally Paid Open Access rights and a Creative Commons CC-BY 4.0 License. The corresponding author is allowed to change the options (but the default options is recommended and may be requested by your institution).

For the corresponding author to choose a Creative Commons License they cannot change the rights option from Institutionally Paid Open Access to Exclusive License to Publish.

Title of ACM publication: Craig-Boris '19: Craig's test event for Boris LaTeX Code 2 Proceedings

Your paper, "TESTPAPER-Creating IoT-ready XR-WebApps with Unity3D", was accepted for publication in Craig-Boris '19. You must formally grant permission to ACM to publish this contribution before ACM can proceed with production.

Please note that Carnegie Mellon University Libraries has an agreement under which affiliated corresponding authors can make their articles Open Access at no additional cost. This agreement allows you to choose from any of ACM's available rights options, which are detailed below. Please note that regardless of which rights option you choose, your article will be made Open Access in the ACM Digital Library. To assign a Creative Commons license on your paper, you must choose the Institutionally Paid Open Access option below. To confirm your participation in this program:

- Select Institutionally Paid Open Access from the list of rights options below
- As per ACM publications' policy, you and your co-authors have the option to choose from any rights choices afforded to all authors of ACM published works.

What rights do you want to grant ACM? Note that both options obligate ACM to defend the work against improper use by third parties:

Institutionally Paid Open Access - The authors retain all rights to the work and give ACM non-exclusive permission to publish. This option allows the authors to display their choice of Creative Commons license on the work (license details below).

Exclusive License to Publish - Authors choosing this option will retain copyright of their work while providing ACM with exclusive publishing rights.

Funding Body

Funding agencies increasingly wish to track published outcomes of funded research and enable access to them. ACM makes it easy to support directives calling for public access to funded research. ACM now requests identification of agency and grant numbers in a normalized form. ACM is using the Open Funder Registry provided by Crossref's Funding Data Service. Please type in the acronym or name of the funding agency and click on the standard naming convention of your funding agency. Please add award number(s) separated by commas. Once you have completed entering the information, click "Add Funding Body" and repeat (if necessary).
